DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The lengthy details of the polymerization process of claim 7 are not described in the specification, thus, they are new matters.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hottovy (US 5,183,866) in view of Burns et al. (US 5,455,314) and Tanifuji et al. (US 5,462,998).

Hottovy teaches an olefin polymerization process conducted in a loop reactor comprising conducting the olefin polymerization in the presence of a catalyst in the loop reactor to provide a polymer slurry, accumulating the polymer slurry in a settling leg, passing the polymer slurry through a PTO valve on the settling leg to a flash chamber to the location for separating the polymer solid and the diluent (col. 4, lines 39-63). It is noted that Hottovy does not expressly disclose the type of PTO valve.

Taking the solid polymer product from the polymerization reactor through a rotating valve to minimize the interruption of the polymerization process is conventional, and such is taught in Burns (col. 2, lines 39-52) and Tanifuji (col. 3, lines 56-62; and col. 4, lines 30-43).

Thus, it would have been obvious to a skilled artisan at the time the invention was made to employ Burns or Tanifuji's valve on Hottovy's settling leg to take off the polymer product with minimize interruption to the polymerization system since such is conventional done in the art and in the absence of any showing criticality and unexpected results.
